There are many sexually transmitted infections (STIs) that are passed from one person to another by having sex without using condoms. If STIs are not treated, they can do permanent damage to your reproductive organs to the point of not being able to have babies. And there are more serious STIs such as HIV and HTLV-1 that have no cure. HIV eventually becomes AIDS and kills. The only way to prevent transmission of STIs including HIV and HTLV-1 is to always use condoms when having sex.
