

ATTENTION All Inuit Youth

Are you between the ages of 13 and 30?

Would you like to learn how to:

- do research?
- teach other Inuit youth about safer sex?
- work with organizations to protect Inuit youth from unsafe sex?

If your answer is yes, you have come to the right place! The National Inuit Youth Council, Pauktuutit Inuit Women of Canada, and the Ajunnginiq Centre of the National Aboriginal Health Organization (NAHO) want to work with you.

We are inviting 10 Inuit youth: 4 from Nunavut and 2 each from Inuvialuit, Nunavik, and Nunatsiavut regions to attend a Pan-Arctic Sexual Health Conference in February 2008. Selected youth will participate in a workshop that teaches them how to:

- create and deliver research projects in their communities
- teach other youth about safer sexual practices
- work with the three National Inuit Organizations.

How do you qualify? You need to be willing to do the following:

- look around your community to see what kind of sexual health information exists: for example, is there visible information about how to have safer sex, where to get testing, treatment, and counselling?
- write down what you find
- report your findings at the Pan-Arctic Sexual Health conference (we can help you here).

If you are interested, please contact Jesse Mike or Qajaaq Ellsworth, National Inuit Youth Sexual Health contact by e-mail at sexualhealth@niyc.ca. Deadline to send in your name is January 15, 2008.

To learn more about the sexual health conference visit:

www.pauktuutit.ca/pdf/submission\_form.pdf